

One-stop Solution - Benefits and Services

For more than 20 years, BRAUN has not only offered and sold lighting solutions, but also produced them in-house. How is this possible?

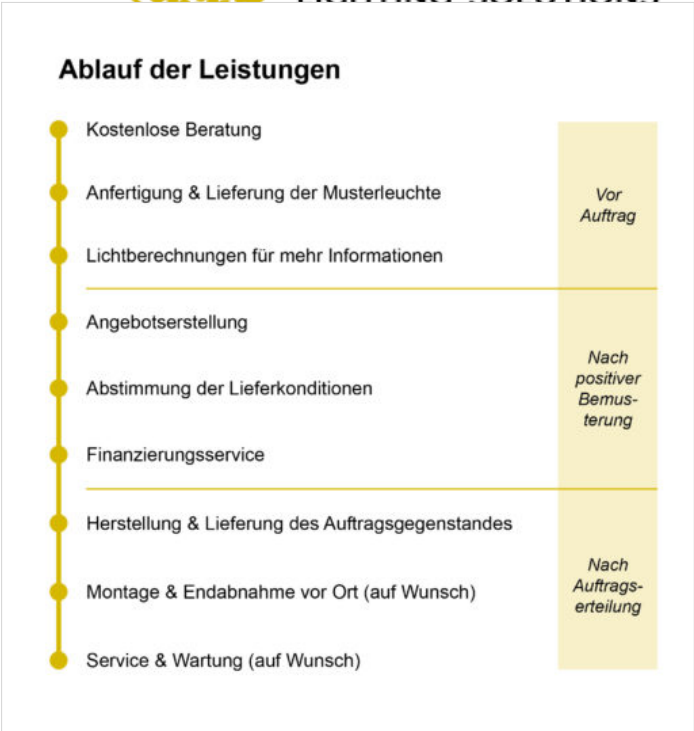

As one of the few companies in this industry, we have developed an impressive manufacturing process that incorporates and completes the entire manufacturing process. From planning and consultation with the customer, to lighting calculations, to sheet metal fabrication and subsequent assembly, everything is done from a single source. This not only gives the freedom to create almost any product desired, but also gives total control during the manufacturing process. Thus, any customer needs can be incorporated and customized according to product specifications.

Cumbersome, time-consuming coordination and agreement between multiple plants and suppliers? With BRAUN, this is simply no longer necessary – each project is implemented tailor-made and offers a professional full service for years to come.

Your partner for complete services

As a specialist for historical and modern lighting, luminaires, candelabras and poles can be refurbished in accordance with the requirements of historical monuments. Even after the actual installation work, the work does not end: depending on the customer's wishes, the luminaire and installation sets can be regularly quality controlled, maintained and cleaned.

The company's own production and workshop facilities, development department and outstanding service give it a significant competitive edge. And customers benefit from it!

Do you have a project that needs support? Our specialists are always at your disposal.
